LOVE IN MARBLE

The Taj Mahal, though oft written about, quoted and shot by photographers from all over the world, still remains one of the most beautiful and intriguing examples of the evolution of human architecture and design.

The Taj Mahal is an ivory-white marble mausoleum on the southern bank of the river Yamuna in the Indian city of Agra. It was commissioned in 1632 by the Mughal emperor Shah Jahan to house the tomb of his favourite wife, MumtazMahal. The tomb is the centrepiece of a 17-hectare (42-acre) complex, which includes a mosque and a guest house, and is set in formal gardens bounded on three sides by a crenellated wall.

It is said that the construction of the mausoleum was essentially completed in 1643, but work continued on other phases of the project for another 10 years.
